The adortion of Congress has given the GLOBE an official character as the reporter of all that is said and done in the body. This sanction has been and the done in the body. This sanction has been voted at every successive session for many years, and by members of all parties. The press, too, of all parties, has borne testimony to the fidelity with which the duty thus confided has been performed. The great celerity with which the letter-writers for the distant press circulate through the telegraph their hurried accounts and views of the debates of Congress renders were investigated than every the

for the distant press circulate through the telegraph their hurried accounts and views of the debates of Congress, renders more important than ever the full and exact official reports of the Congressional Glove. The hasty, and in many instances ex parte, relations by telegraph of what occurs in Congress supersede, for the most part, the exact reports taken down by reporters, and which formerly, in a shape more or less abbreviated, went the rounds of the press. Now the telegraph accounts, with all their imperfections and variety of colorings, take the run of the country, and no press but the official of Congress ever publishes the full debate with the proceedings of both Houses unmutilated. Indeed, no newspaper can give them, and have room for advertisements and the miscellaneous matter essent all to their existence. While, therefore, the telegraph administers to the eager appetite of the public for Congress news, and meets the necessities of the political press, by furnishing a rapidly-written epitome suited to the taste of its patrons, perfect information of what passes in Congress is greatly diminished. The circulation of the official reports has been, to some extent, cut off by the crude and diversified accounts which, flying along the electric wires, astisfies curiosity, and it is almost in vain that truth puts on his boots to follow. Still there are a great many men of leisure and thought who like to see what is actually said and done in Congress, and to judge for themselves, rather than to receive impressions altogether from galvanic batteries. There are others, too, who, for the sake of the future, willingly patronize a work which preserves a full record of the doings of the the sake of the future, willingly patronize a work which preserves a full record of the doings of the great moving and controlling power of the Re-

The undersigned has made preparations com The undersigned has made preparations commensurate with the increased importance of the duty he has undertaken as the only reporter and publisher of the complete debates and proceedings of both Houses of Congress. The coming session will probably be extended nine months, and the reports will not be comprised in less than 3,500 royal quarto pages of brevier and nonpareil type, making 4 volumes of near 900 pages each. The reports for the last long session made 3,996 royal quarto pages, and were bound in 4 volumes, averaging 974 royal quarto pages each.

I will publish in the Appendix for the next session all laws that may be passed during the session, which has not been done heretofore. Although this will increase in no small degree the expense of the publication, the subscription price will be the the publication, the subscription price will be the same that it has been for several years past.

The Daily Glosk will be published during the session on a superfine double royal sheet. It will contain the debates as taken down by the report-contain the debates as taken down by the reporters, and as altered by the speakers, whenever they make any alterations; the current news of the day, and miscellaneous matter. The main object for publishing the daily paper is to enable Members to see their remarks in it, and alter them if they shall think proper before they are published in the Congressional Globe and Appendix.

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two Houses of Congress, and printed on a double royal paper, with small type, (brevier and nonparell.) in quarto form, each number containing sixteen royal quarto pages. The speeches of the Members, in this first form, are sometimes condensed—the full report of the prepared speeches being reserved for the Appendix. All resolutions, motions, and other proceedings, are given in the form of the Journals, with the yeas and mays on every important question.

the yeas and nays on every important question.

The Appendix is made up of the President's Annual Message, the Reports of the principal Officers of the Government that accompany it, and all Speeches of Members of Congress, written out or as the Congressional Gloss, and usually makes about the same number of pages during a session.

During the first month or six weeks of a session. there is rarely more business done than will make two numbers a week—one of the Congressional Gloss and one of the Appendix; but during the remainder of a session there is usually sufficient matter for two or three numbers of each every GLOSE and APPENDIX together will make at least 3,500 large quarto pages, printed in small type—brevier and nonpareil. Complete Indexes to both will be furnished at the end of a session.

I will endeavor to print a sufficient number of surplus copies to supply all that may be miscar-ried, or lost in the mails; but subscribers should be very particular to file their papers carefully, for fear that I should not be able to supply all the lost numbers.

If subscribers shall not be satisfied with the work, the money paid by them for it will be re-funded to them whenever they return the numbers which may have been received by them. I will give subscribers the subscription price for any of the previous volumes of the CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE will thank any person who will let me have them.

I have a few copies of the back volumes of the Congressional Glork and Appendix for sale at So a volume bound, which it is probable will be disposed of soon; and when they are, they will then, no doubt, command at least $10 a volume, as they cannot be reprinted for less than that sum. The elaborate and stately Essays of the Edirburgh, Quarterly, and other Reviews; and Blackwood's noble criticisms on Poetry, his keen political Commentaries, highly wrought Tales, and vivid descriptions of rural and mountain scenery; and the contributions to Literature, History, and common life, by the sagracious Spectator, the sparkling and industrious Literary Gazette, the sensible and comprehensive Britannia, the sober and respectable Christian Observer; these are intermixed with the RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.

The steamship has brought Europe, Asia, and Africa into our neighborhood, and will greatly multiply our connexions as merchants, travellers, iticians, with all parts of the world; so that much more than ever, it now becomes every intel-ligent American to be informed of the conditions and changes of foreign countries. And this not only because of their nearer connexion with our selves, but because the nations seem to be hasten-ing through a rapid process of change, to somenew state of things, which the merely political prophet cannot compute or foresee.

Geographical Discoveries, the progress of Colonization, (which is extending over the whole world,) and Voyages and Travels, will be favorite matter for our selections; and in general, we shall systematically and very fully acquaint our readers with he great department of foreign affairs, without entirely neglecting our own.

The samples referred to in this advertisement are those selected for the ensuing fiscal year, and

While we aspire to make the Living Age desirable to all who wish to keep themselves informed of the rapid progress of the movement—to statesmen, di vines, lawyers, and physicians—to men of business and men of leisure,—it is still a stronger object to make it attractive to their wives and children. We make it attractive to their wives and children. We believe that we can thus do some good in our day and generation, and hope to make the work indispensable in every well-informed family. We say indispensable, because in this day of cheapliterature it is not possible to guard against theinflux of what is bad in taste and vicious in morals, in any other way than by furnishing a sufficient supply of a healthy character.
